STORED TRANSCRIPT

Source: existing stored transcript. Timing is not inferred.

Just stop talking. You have your vision, you have your business idea, your goal, whatever that may be. Just go. Stop telling everyone what you're going to do and when you're going to do it, because really, no one cares. You know, they might give you an, "Oh, that's cool," and then forget about it literally 30 seconds later. And I don't say that to be harsh, but the reality is most people just don't care, because they have their own life. So now, all that you're left with is a watered down idea. You've taken away the essence that made it so special in the first place, and that's why you never end up following through. So just go. You don't need any type of validation or reassurance, you don't need anyone else's support, because this is for you. This is your purpose, your legacy, your path. You have everything you need to take that first step. And I promise you, once you get going, you will never look back.
